Some parts of this track were not directly collected on the field by our staff. For this reason not all informations on crossroads are available. Length, altitude and other geographic informations are probably correct but informations about cyclability, route type and difficulty are not reliable since they were interpolated from the other data.

Description

In 217 BCE, Hannibal's troops defeated the Roman legions under consul Gaius Flaminius in one of the major battles of the Second Punic War.

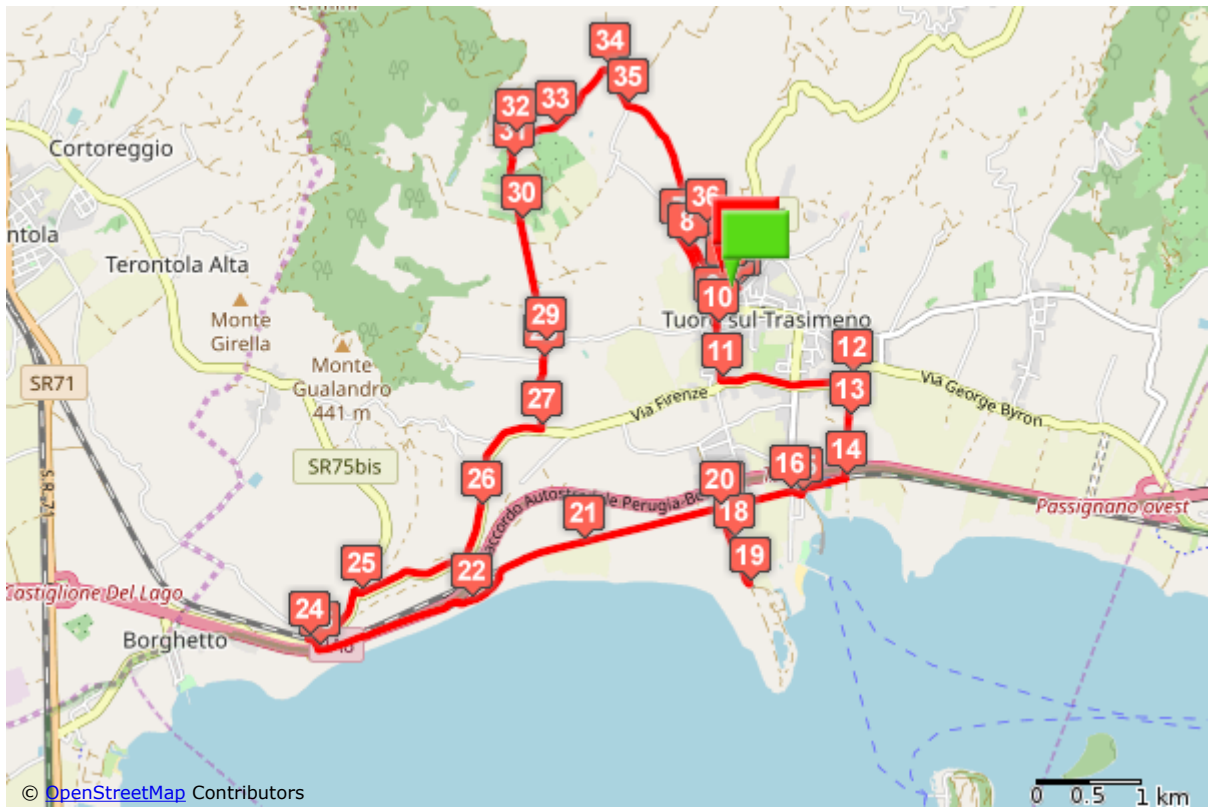

An easy walk along a landscape touched by History, marked by signposts and panels set up along resting areas to provide detailed information on the battle's events.
